Item on Foster's Camera Collection Gains Wide Notice

THIS AND THAT: Not long ago this near-daily effort carried a yarn about the collection of John Foster's old cameras that was displayed in the Skaggs drug store window.

The United Press picked it up and sent a small story out to all its clients and was published in a lot of daily newspapers throughout the country.

Since its publication Mr. Foster local commercial photographer, has received four letters from afar regarding the item. The closest letter was from St. Joseph, Mo. The others were from Baltimore, Md., Fall River, Mass., and Long Beach, Calif.

All of the writers had old cameras they would like to sell to Mr. Foster to add to his collection.

Besides these, Mrs. John Singleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hill, read the item in a Florida paper and the sister of William H. Farley read it in Bloomington, Ill.

WE GROW 'EM ODDER DEPT.: Aubrey Wilson of Carrier Mills grew quite a cucumber out in his garden. He knew that it was going to be a freak of nature because he noticed the oddity when it was quite tiny.

The cucumber really consists of three cucumbers growing together. They all came from one bloom, Mr. Wilson said. He first noticed the freak when it was about an inch long. Overall length today was 11 inches.

THE WEATHERMAN IS BACK and maybe he can do something about this hot weather.

Clyde Pittman, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, and Mrs. Pittman have returned from a two weeks' vacation spent on the north shore of Lake Superior in Minnesota. When they left there the temperature showed 59. When they got home it was 90. He definitely should have brought the Minnesota weather with him.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?: There has been some water coming over the spillway at Lake Harrisburg ever since May 29. That's right. Sometimes it has been just a trickle and if we don't get a rain right away the trickle will trickle out. But it just goes to show that it doesn't take very much rain to add water to our big supply.

HUMOR DEPT.: The teacher was explaining to the class the meaning of the word "recuperate." "Now, Tommy," she said to a small boy in her class, "when your father has worked hard all day, he is tired and worn out, isn't he?" "Yes, ma'am." "Then, when night comes, and his work is over for the day, what does he do?" "That's what mother wants to know," Tommy explained.

Revoke Four Driver Licenses

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier has revoked the driving licenses of Thomas F. Sawyer, 17, Herrin, Ronald Thompson, 17, Lawndale, James E. Fernald, 20, Bloomington, and Atwill F. Burgess, 23, Benton.

Carpentier said each of the young men through unlawful driving had contributed to accidents resulting in death or injury.

Rites at Carmi Today For Oil Field Worker, Victim of Explosion

Funeral services for Wendell Lynn, 29, oil field worker of Carmi who met his death Thursday in a gas explosion southwest of Eldorado, will be held this afternoon in the chapel of the Kittinger funeral home in Carmi.

The Rev. Donnie E. Martin, pastor of the Christian church of Carmi, will officiate at the services, which will be followed by burial in the Concord Cemetery southeast of Carmi with military rites.

A PRODUCER IN INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Oil activity, which has been mostly confined to the northern part of Saline county, especially in Eldorado and Raleigh townships, is slowly spreading southward and just this week a producing well was developed in Independence township. The well, on the Ada Sisk farm in section 15, Independence, was drilled by the Herndon company, Tulsa, Okla., for Sunray Mid-Continent. Friday morning workmen were busy setting a pump. The well swabbed 43 barrels a day, it is reported. When the above picture was taken an employee of the Bingham Well Service Co., Carmi, stated the well was flowing, but he didn't know how many barrels. The pump was started late Friday afternoon. New Acts Secured for Saline County Fair July 31-August 5

The people of Saline county and the surrounding area will get a different and varied program of events at the 49th annual Saline County Agricultural fair to be held July 31 through August 5.

Fine new acts have been secured to give the public something different. The gaited horse show and horse racing, long a fixture at the county fair, have been dropped this season and in their places will be such events as hell drivers, wild animal show, greyhound racing and the Duke of Paducah and his show with a cast of 14.

Two old standbys, the western horse show and the Saline County Beauty Contest and Automobile Show, which have aroused lots of interest in the past, are on the program this year, however.

Will Begin July 31

The L. J. Heth shows, a carnival with 50 shows, riding devices and concessions, will arrive Sunday, July 31, and remain during the entire week.

The fair will get underway July 31 with afternoon and evening programs featuring the Duke of Paducah and his company.

Monday morning and afternoon will be devoted to entries of all types of exhibits and that night the western horse show will be held with $1,100 in prizes offered.

Tuesday will be known as Kids Day with free admission and carnival rides for nine cents to all children until 5 p. m. Livestock also will be judged that day.

Tuesday night there will be dog racing with greyhounds competing in eight events.

Wednesday will see the return of the popular Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers to the Saline County fair. This troupe was here last year and all who saw the performance expressed a desire to see it return again this season.

Usual Fair Exhibits

Gene Holder's wild animal show will occupy the spotlight both Thursday afternoon and Thursday night, with local men, whose names will be announced later, riding in camel and ostrich races.

The kiddies get a break again Friday afternoon, with special nine-cent carnival rides until 5 p. m.

The fair will close Friday night with the annual Saline County Beauty Contest and Automobile Show sponsored by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Besides this program there will be the usual exhibits of cattle, sheep, swine, horses and mules, agricultural products, floriculture, textiles and fine arts, culinary items, the junior department and 4-H club activities.

To Move Spudder Rig to Test Hit By Gas Explosion

A spudder rig will be moved on to the Sutton 1 oil test location south of Eldorado, where a worker was burned fatally Thursday in a mine gas explosion and fire, to set the mine string, it was announced today by J. Cecil Sullivan of John Stelle Associates.

The Hose-Austin Drilling Corp. was drilling the well for the John Stelle Associates when the blast occurred just as the crew was getting ready to set mine string through some abandoned coal mine workings, using their rotary equipment.

Sullivan said that the Associates have purchased a spudder rig at the Sutton location soon to set the mine string.

He also said that Hose-Austin is getting new rotary equipment which will be put into operation at the location soon after the mine string is run. He added that in the future the Stelle Associates would use the spudder rig to set the mine string on all their wells where drilling would go through mine workings.

Killed in the Thursday explosion was Wendell Lynn, 29, of Carmi. Two new operations near Harrisburg are scheduled to get started right away by the Stelle Associates, Sullivan stated.

Hold Centralia Man For Killing Wife

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—Eldon Marshall, 25, was held by police today for shooting and killing his wife.

Police Chief L. C. Peters said Marshall confessed that he shot his wife, Virginia, 26, with a 20 gauge shotgun when they quarreled Friday night.

Peters said the slaying occurred in Marshall's home, while a family friend, Ronnie Hixenbaugh of rural Centralia, looked on.

Whitfield Asks Withdrawal of AEC Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower began searching today for a candidate to replace Allen Whitfield as a nominee to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Whitfield, a Des Moines attorney who is under intensive investigation by the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, asked Friday that his nomination be withdrawn. Mr. Eisenhower is expected to comply with Whitfield's wish next week.

Whitfield explained that he wanted to avoid a "political controversy." He said answering committee questions would force him to violate the confidential relationship of his law firm with its clients.

President Eisenhower was quoted after a huddle with GOP legislative leaders only last month as saying that the Whitfield nomination was a good one. But the nomination had come under heavy fire in the committee.

Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) disclosed, only a few hours before the White House made public Whitfield's withdrawal request, that he had issued subpoenas to committee investigators in Des Moines. He said they had received "very little cooperation" from Whitfield.

The Senate-House committee's inquiry, which involved two earlier trips to Des Moines by staff representatives, centered on Whitfield's role as a trustee for the estate of the late R. A. Crawford. Crawford died in August, 1937, leaving a major interest in a Des Moines bank to his wife for her lifetime and thereafter to a number of philanthropic organizations including Drake University.

NEA Elects Buford President; Urges Adequate Salaries

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Education Assn. ended its convention by adopting a resolution that condemns "book burnings, purges or other devices" which express a "lack of confidence in the integrity, loyalty, and good judgment of the American people."

The association passed a recommendation urging federal appropriations to insure "an adequate salary schedule" for teachers. It recommended a beginning salary for teachers of at least $4,200 a year for those with bachelor degrees, and at least $9,500 a year for a teacher with a master degree and 15 years' experience.

The association elected John Lester Buford, superintendent of schools at Mount Vernon, Ill., president of the NEA.

Russell Pushes Voluntary Reserve Plan

Urges $400 Bonus Proposal Despite Wilson Opposition

By United Press
Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today he would not be deterred from pushing his voluntary military reserve plan despite opposition by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

Under Russell's proposal, veterans would not be forced to participate in the reserves. But they would be given a $400 bonus for volunteering for three years in the combat reserve of the Army and Marine Corps.

In a letter to Russell, Wilson urged the committee to accept the administration plan of making reserve service compulsory for all servicemen. He said the compulsory provision is necessary to insure a "hard core" of experienced trained personnel needed for the reserves.

But Russell said, "I think I have got the best plan." He said his mind is not closed on his plan and that he may withdraw it if defense officials can show that it would "cause a breakdown or be destructive of the reserve."

The House already has adopted in modified form the administration plan which requires a total of five years active and reserve duty for all servicemen.

Other congressional news:
DIXON-YATES: A special Senate monopoly subcommittee prepared to make public a report prepared by investment banker Adolph B. Wenzel on the Tennessee Valley Authority while he was a government consultant. Democrats said it would show that Wenzel helped formulate President Eisenhower's public power policy.

The report suggested a Dixion-Yates-like arrangement for supplementing TVA power production which the administration later adopted. Democrats have charged that at the same time Wenzel was advising the government, he was also advising the group behind the Dixion-Yates project.

HIGHWAYS: Rep. Tom Steed (D-Okla.) predicted the House Public Works Committee will approve a multi-billion dollar highway program to be financed in part by a penny hike in the gasoline tax and increased taxes on truck fuel and tires, and buses and trailers.

A nine-man subcommittee recommended the tax plan Friday as a substitute for President Eisenhower's proposal to finance the highway program through bonds.

DEFENSE PRODUCTION: Sen. Homer E. Caphart, ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee, said he will get the administration's views this weekend on a proposal to limit the authority of government "dollar-a-year" men. He wants to find out whether the proposal will hurt the defense production program. If so, he may try to strike the limitation from a pending Senate bill to extend the Defense Production Act for two years. The proposal would forbid "dollar-a-year" men to hold major policy or administrative posts except in time of war or national emergency.

Mrs. Nannie E. Bradley, a former resident of Ridgway and Eldorado, died at 1 p. m. Friday in the Good Shepherd Nursing Home in Galatia.

The body will lie in state at the Smith and Edwards funeral home in Ridgway Methodist church. The Rev. Homer Young and the Rev. Joe Harris, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Asbury Cemetery.

Einstein Posthumously Joins Seven Scientists in Warning to Renounce War

LONDON (AP)—Albert Einstein, who helped father the atomic bomb, posthumously joined seven renowned scientists today in warning the world to renounce war or die.

The best authorities are unanimous in saying that a war with H-bombs might quite possibly put an end to the human race, the appeal said.

"It is feared that if many H-bombs are used there will be universal death," the man who knows are most gloomy.

"Here, then, is the problem which we present to you, stark and dreadful, the inescapable: Shall we put an end to the human race? Or shall mankind renounce war?"

Lord Bertrand Russell, who said Einstein and the six other signatory scientists joined him in agreeing something "dramatic" had to be done to jolt the world into realizing the danger, released the statement at a news conference with more than 100 newsmen at London's Caxton Hall today.

Government Heads Receive Copies
Simultaneously, Russell announced copies had been sent to the heads of government of the United States, Soviet Russia, Britain, France, Canada and Communist China with an invitation to those leaders to make a "public expression" on it.

Prohibition of nuclear weapons will bring only "illusory" security to mankind, the statement said. "Whatever agreement not to use H-bombs had been reached in time of peace, they would no longer be considered binding in time of war."

The human race stands "in imminent danger of perishing agonizingly" unless the governments of the world "find peaceful means for the settlement of all matters of dispute between them."

One of Einstein's last living acts was to sign the appeal, Russell said. Russell, Britain's Nobel prize-winning mathematician and philosopher, said he originated the idea of the appeal and suggested it to Einstein as a chance for scientists to "do something dramatic" for the cause of peace.

Einstein "Glad To Sign"
Russell said Einstein promptly replied he was "glad to sign your excellent statement."

In addition to Einstein and Russell, the documents were signed by:

Prof. P. W. Bridgman, professor of Harvard University, winner of the Nobel Prize for physics.
Prof. L. Infeld, Warsaw University professor, joint author with Einstein of the evolution of physics and the problem of motion.
Prof. H. J. Muller, formerly a professor in Moscow and India and now at the University of Indiana, Nobel Prize winner in physiology and medicine for the discovery of the X-ray.

Groves Awarded Paving Contract West of New Haven

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Edwin A. Rosenstone, director of public works and buildings, today announced that S. J. Groves and Sons and J. C. O'Connor and Sons, Springfield, have been awarded a $2,172,650 contract to construct 6.32 miles of concrete pavement on Route 113 from approximately a half mile west of New Haven, Ill., northeasterly to the new Wabash river bridge under construction. The announcement that these firms were low bidders on the job was made last month.

Moscow Urges Return Of Wartime Co-Operation

LONDON (AP) — Radio Moscow appealed today for a revival of the wartime co-operation between Russia and the Western Allies. It expressed hope a start can be made at the Geneva conference.

Seen as Direct Challenge to SEATO Powers

Laotian Gov't Reports Drive by Communist Rebels

TOKYO (AP) — The "massive" attack launched by Communist-led troops against government forces in the Indochinese kingdom of Laos was viewed by observers here today as a new threat to peace in Asia and a direct Communist challenge to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Some quarters speculated the attacks may have been coordinated with the Peiping announcement of new and extensive aid to Communist-led North Viet Nam.

Concern also was expressed in Washington by a State Department official.

The Laotian government announced Friday that Communist-led rebels opened a drive against loyal troops in the mountains of eastern Laos and already had overrun at least one Laotian army post. It said the attack is being made by at least three battalions of rebels of the Communist-organized Pathet-Lao (Free Lao) movement set up during the Indochinese war for Guerrilla operations against the French.

The government communique said that the Pathet-Lao was reinforced by Communist Viet Minh elements who apparently had been hiding out in the rugged terrain since the Geneva cease-fire last year.

Asian circles anxiously are waiting to see what the United States, Britain and France will do. There is equally great interest in the positions to be taken by the other SEATO powers much closer to this new Red aggression: The views of Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan will be received also with much interest.

The Communist attack, coupled with the declaration by Mao and Ho, appeared to be a direct challenge to the SEATO powers—and some observers thought it might be designed to test the willingness of the SEATO nations to meet force with force.

Veteran observers believed that if the SEATO powers moved quickly to halt the Reds, as the United Nations did in Korea, the chances of further Communist military aggression in Asia would be lessened.

On the other hand, they thought failure of the SEATO to take action might prove an invitation to the Reds to continue armed action.

In Bangkok, Thailand, SEATO military advisers Friday ended a three-day secret conference devoted to planning for the defense of Southeast Asia.

No details of the planning session were made public. A communique announced only that the military advisers approved reports submitted to them by their staff planners who met in Baguio, Philippines, last April.

A STATEWIDE SURVEY OF TRUCKS OPERATING IN ILLINOIS was conducted this week by representatives of the Illinois Commerce Commission, Motor Carrier of Property Division. Arno R. Dubre of Thompsonville, field investigator for the ICC, conducted the survey at Eldorado, interviewing truckers as they brought their wheat to the Eldorado Grain Company. Mr. Dubre stated he didn't attempt to check with every truck driver, but in the four-day period, July 5 to July 8, he hoped to interview 150 drivers. Dubre declared he had received 100 per cent cooperation from the truck drivers and expressed his appreciation of the cooperation he received from Warren J. Meyer, operator of the Eldorado Grain Co. Mr. Dubre is shown as he finished talking with a trucker, just before the truck was driven in to the elevator to dump its load of wheat. (Register Staff Photo)

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois
Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in Southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Legumes, Grass and Gains
Steer gains during the previous 38 days varied widely, says George Gmarik, who spent several hot hours loading, weighing and unloading the experimental steers on the Station. These steers were weighed off pastures with various seedings. Those on the legume pastures of alfalfa, Ladino and red clover made average daily gains ranging from 1.34 pounds to 2.24 pounds, with the average gain being 1.73 pounds a day. The steers on grass gained from 42 to 1.36 pounds with an average gain of .90 pounds a day. Highest gain on grass was made on a mixture of brome and Kentucky blue grass and lowest gain on fescue. Gmarik thinks that this shows you should spring pasture and not for the hot summer months.

Market Lambs Soon
"To market, to market, goes a fat lamb," Jack Lewis, assistant superintendent, makes this change in the old nursery rhyme. What he means is that hot weather, poor pastures and the increased danger of worm infection never make a fat lamb better. Market prices tend to go down as the temperature rises, too, so watch your flock closely and get those lambs out just as soon as they reach market weight!

New Bloat Statistics
Recently this column reported
"no bloat on clover mixtures to date." We now have one lost bloated steer to report. The steers had been on a practically pure stand of legumes since May 10
and this is the first to die of bloat.
Going Up!

The new dormitory being erected at the Station is rapidly taking shape. So far, the blocks have been laid for the basement, drainage and water pressure systems are in, the floor joists and sub-floor are laid and the framing is going up.

Rainfall and Soil Moisture
With the half-way mark of 1955 almost here a tally of rainfall at the Station shows a deficiency of approximately three inches. All of this deficit occurred during the month of January. The amount of rainfall during the spring months has been slightly above normal. Many storms, however, have lasted over a period of several days. As a result spring planting and hay-making are behind schedule. Soil moisture conditions here are the best since 1951.

More Rain — More Grass Silage
Three silos have been filled and number four is being filled now with Ladino and fescue. It is still necessary to reduce moisture by wilting in order to get high quality silage. This silage is to be used in a sheep feeding trial. Some of our best gains have been with sheep
on Ladino clover pasture, and grass silage is the nearest thing to fresh pasture we have.

Combining Fescue Seed Fescue seed at the Station is yielding 250 to 400 pounds an acre.
This comes from a seeding that was treated last fall with 100 pounds of 60 percent potash, 100 pounds of 48 percent superphosphate and 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate an acre. This spring an additional 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate was applied. One of the highest yields is coming from a field in which the fescue is being topped above Ladino clover in a bottom area seeded in 1952. Part of this area was harvested as grass silage on May 2 and yielded six tons of green forage an acre.

Don't Let Your Hogs
Get That Hog-Fat Look CHICAGO (UP) — Hogs should keep their weight down just like everybody else.

According to the National Live Stock Producer, the leading magazine in its line, hogs weighing from 200 to 225 pounds bring the most money to their owners.

Excess fat on hogs is selling for about $10 less than lean pork per hundredweight at the present time, and there is a gamble involved in the 300-pounders anyway, the magazine said.

They bring gain if the market goes up and loss if it doesn't.

There's still another reason for hog producers to keep their hogs slim — consumers don't like fat pork.

DOUBLING PRODUCTION—This 2-year-old White Rock hen may be a little surprised herself as she contemplates her odd egg production.
In the past two months, she has laid nine large eggs like the one at right. Each contained a yolk and a regular-sized egg inside. Large

Use Enough
Limestone

Can you apply too much limestone? The answer is, "yes." But few farmers ever do. Most farmers aren't getting on enough.

Much talk about the effect of limestone on the availability of phosphorus and rock phosphate has raised the question in the minds of many farmers, says C. M. Linsley, University of Illinois soils specialist.

Soil tests for lime used in county soil testing laboratories show only the amount of limestone needed to correct about 80 percent of the acidity in the soil. So actually, after the limestone has had time to take effect, the soil is still slightly acid, Linsley explains.

In the soil test a slightly acid soil shows up as not needing lime.
That means it is "sweet" and a sweet soil contains enough limestone to grow good alfalfa and clover. So don't mix up the term
"sweet" with the term "neutral."
Neutral is an exact chemical term used to describe the condition in which there is enough limestone
in the soil to correct all the acidity.

It is, of course, good business
to put on the amount of limestone called for by the soil tests and no more. You can better use the money for extra limestone by buying any phosphate or potash that tests show you need. Even so, a ton or two more lime than the test calls for is not overthinning and will not affect the availability of phosphorus and rock phosphate.

"YOUR SAFETY is in YOUR HANDS"

Accidents strike
Quick as a Wink!

ILLINOIS FARM MISHAPS CLAIM BETTER
Than One Life a Day, IAA Reports

CHICAGO (UP) — A horse kicked a southern Illinois farmer to the ground and then pulled a plow
over him, breaking his leg.

A young Winnebago County farmer was dragged to his death in a hay crusher when his glove drew him in and he was caught in it.

A 9-year-old Broughton girl burned to death when her brother set fire to a field before plowing it, not knowing she was playing there.

These are recent examples of Illinois farm accidents — mishaps that claim an average of better than one life a day.

Otto Steffey, president of the Illinois Agricultural Assn. and chairman of the Illinois Rural Safety Council, reported the state's death toll in farm accidents last year alone was 433.

Property Loss Enormous
Beside that, Steffey said, there were 15,534 injuries and a property loss of 75 million dollars—equal to the value of the annual Illinois
poultry, egg, sheep and wool crops put together.

To spotlight the need for care to avoid accidents, Steffey's group is sponsoring a field day at the State Hogrounds in Springfield July 26,
during National Farm Safety Week.
Safety experts will demonstrate fire-fighting methods, the hazards of tractor-tipping, artificial respiration and first aid.

Steffey said many accidents involve farmers who "know better" but who slip up and fail to take proper precautions.

Have Alert Mind
"Half of them are caused just by getting your mind on something else and not taking care," he estimated.

Steffey told of a "safety-conscious" friend who forgot to switch off his compactor as he dismounted from his tractor. He tripped and was killed.

The ever-increasing mechanization of Illinois farms is a big reason for the heavy accident toll, Steffey said. He said farmers should keep in mind that their vehicles can be death-dealing.

"When you had horses," he said,
"all you did was holler 'whoa' and they'd stop, most of them. But not tractors."

Steffey said manufacturers will have to "build more safety into the machine" to help reduce the accident toll, but in the end, safety is the job of the individual farmer.

"Too many of us say 'I'm always careful, it can't happen to me,'" he said. "But it can, and does."

Lambs not finished for market
by July 1 run the risk of stomach worms during the hot weather as pastures get shorter and form eggs increase.

American Bricks
Modern historians are agreed that very few, if any, bricks were imported from England to any of the colonies. All bricks used in Virginia during the 17th and 18th centuries seem to have been made there.

Rich Uranium Find in Canada By Ohio Woman

AKRON, Ohio — A casual vacation friendship started 20 years ago blossomed today into a business partnership that could be worth millions.

Mrs. John J. Madigan, a 48-year-old grandmother who liked the Canadian "bush" country because it was "so peaceful and quiet," learned this week she is partner in a uranium discovery rated "one of the richest in North America."

"It was all just by accident," the bewildered Mrs. Madigan said. "But don't think it isn't a lot of fun."

She and her husband, a trucking firm executive, started spending summer vacations at Shabot Lake, Ont., 20 years ago. There they met and became friends with two local residents, Dr. C. J. Whytock and Harvey Adams.

"Last summer they told us they had been looking for uranium," Mrs. Madigan said, "but neither my husband nor I thought much about it."

Four weeks ago, she received a telephone call from Dr. Whytock. He reported possible discovery of uranium, and wanted the couple to buy a geiger counter and come immediately.

They All Laughed

"My husband couldn't go because of his work," she said, "so I tried to interest some friends. They all laughed when I said I was prospecting for uranium."

Two friends, Mrs. Betty Cliff and Mrs. Ruth Wileman, finally agreed to accompany her. She and Mrs. Wileman belong to the same women's club. Mrs. Cliff is a son's neighbor.

Mrs. Madigan bought a "Lucky Strike" geiger counter for $99.50 from an Akron variety store, packed her bags, and drove non-stop to Shabot Lake.

"The counter clicked away like mad when we went over the area," she said. "The doctor took some specimens into Ottawa and Toronto while the rest of us staked out the claims."

The five of them hired a surveyor to cover some 800 acres. They filed about 40 claims, in their own names and those of relatives.

The report from assayers showed 15 per cent uranium content. Then came a message this week from the Atomic Energy Commission that the field could be one of the richest on the continent. The ore might be worth $1,500 a ton.

Banks Sets Homer Record For Shortstops, Cubs Beat Cardinals, 6-4, in 11 Innings

By United Press

Slugging Ernie Banks of the Cubs, with a brand new home run record under his belt, is making Wrigley Field fans forget all about such other long ball hitting heroes as Hack Wilson and Hank Sauer.

The slender, 24-year-old Banks set a National league record for home runs by a shortstop when he blasted his 22nd and 23rd of the season Friday night to help the Cubs beat the Cardinals for the 11th time in 14 games this year, 6-4, in 11 innings.

Banks, whom some Chicago officials say will be "as good a ballplayer, if not better, than Willie Mays some day," broke the old record of 22 homers set by Pittsburgh shortstop Glenn Wright in 1930.

The feat is especially remarkable in that Banks still has practically half the season to add to his total.

Banks' second homer of the game came in the 11th after key-stone partner Gene Baker had walked. The blow gave Harry Perkowski, fourth Chicago pitcher, his first victory of the campaign. Jim King and Sauer also homered for the Cubs while Stan Musial did likewise for the Cards.

Bob Lemon became the first American league pitcher to win 12 games by beating the White Sox although he needed relief from Ray Narloski after working eight innings in 9-6 double heat. Loser Billy Pierce gave up the only run of the game in the first inning on Al Smith's single, a sacrifice and a double by Al Rosen down the right field line.

Earl Torgeson's three-run homer in the 11th inning off Johnny Sain helped the Tigers to their victory after they had blown three leads. It marked Torgeson's second homer of the game and gave him a total of six runs batted in for the contest. Frank House, Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell also homered for Detroit while Jim Finigan connected for Kansas City.

Baltimore snapped Boston's seven-game winning streak as Dave Philley drove in three of the Orioles' runs with a homer, double and a single. Gus Triandos also homered for Baltimore. Reliever Harry Dorish was the winner and Frank Sullivan an All-Star game pitching candidate, the loser.

Rain came to the aid of the Yankees after the Senators had scored a run in the seventh inning and knocked out Byrne. But the game was called and the score reverted back to the sixth inning, so the Yankee southpaw was credited with a three-hit shutout. Yogi Berra drove in two of the winners' runs with an infield out and a sacrifice fly.

Dr. William Rothman, family physician, said he had suffered a coronary thrombosis. He had a heart attack about three years ago, but recently had been in good condition.

Ward, a native of Irwin, Ill., was known for his promotional activities in baseball, football and boxing. He was credited with originating the annual All-Star game between teams, selected by fans' votes, of the two major leagues.

He had been planning to leave this week end for Milwaukee, where the 1955 version of the popular game is to be held next Tuesday.

Vard also played a major role in developing the annual football game here between college All-Stars and professional football champions, and in development of the Golden Gloves boxing teams of amateur fighters.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Heat Wave in 10th Straight Day

By United Press
The blistering heat wave which has wilted the eastern two-thirds of the nation went into its 10th straight day today.

A glimmer of relief appeared in the Midwest where a cool front pushed eastward.

The weatherman cautioned that the front was not of the strong variety and might fizzle out.

The front settled in Illinois today after touching off squalls and storms as it pushed into the heated air.

The forecaster said the main benefit would probably be a lowering of humidity. Temperatures would still be in the 70s or 80s in the Midwest, they said, instead of the 90s.

In Chicago, the mercury climbed to 92, breaking the all-time high for July 8th and marking the Windy City's ninth straight day of above-90 temperatures.

Signs Bill to Permit Cities to Claim Federal Aid Road Funds

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Gov. William G. Stratton today signed bills permitting cities to claim all available federal aid road funds and to pay off street improvement bonds with state motor fuel tax allotments.

In the past cities have been limited to use of "urban" federal aid road funds only.

Jerry Barber 15 Strokes Under Par in Tourney

ST. PAUL, Minn. (U.P.)—Jerry Barber, once called "too little" for golf, wed the field into the third round of the St. Paul Open golf tournament today and had a good chance of setting a new meet record.

Barber set a new record for the first 36 holes by blasting a 15-under par 63-66-129—one stroke under Henry Ransom's record 130 in 1951.

It gave the 5-foot-5-inch Los Angeles pro a three-stroke lead and a good chance of going on to crack the tournament record of 266 by Lloyd Mangrum in 1951 and Cary Middlecoff in 1952.

The 39-year-old chip and putt artist, who uses a battered old putter, said he wasn't playing "quite as well Friday as in the opening round" then grinned.

"But it's still the best tournament golf I've ever played," Barber fired a five-under-par 31 on Friday's first nine and sank a pair of 20-foot putts, but he was only one under par with 35 on the second after bogeying the 13th and missing a 12-footer and possible eagle on 18.

But despite his hot pace, Barber was only three strokes ahead of Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and four ahead of Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., at the end of Friday's second round.

Palmer was 12-under-par with 65-67-132 and Bolt 65-68-133.

Altogether 38 golfers were beating par in the first two rounds. But they were amazed at Barber's showing.

George Bigham of Kansas City, Mo., and Fred Hawkins, St. Andrews, Ill., had eight-under-par 136's, but they still were seven strokes behind Barber.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., and Wally Ulrich of Rochester, Minn., had 137, and Ralph Blomquist, Glendale, Calif., Jerry Kessler, Toronto, Canada, and Joe Goria, St. Paul, had 138.

At 139-five under par but still 10 behind Barber—were Porky Oliver, Lemont, Ill.; Bob Holsbury, San Francisco, and Bud Roscher, Apple Valley, Calif.

Sam Sneed, one of the pre-tournament favorites, slid to two-over-par 74 Friday for an even-par total of 144.

Yawkey Having Spent Bundle, Bosox Get Shortstop for Free

Billy Klaus

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Tom Yawkey has spent millions for ballplayers in Boston.

More recently, the timber heir shelled out more than $500,000 in bonuses for untied kids.

Yet, until now, the Red Sox have been without an entirely satisfactory shortstop since Joe Cronin grew too fat and too old.

And Owner Yawkey finally landed his shortstop, Billy Klaus, the carburetor of the resurgent Bosox, free, gratis and for nothing. The little Dutchman out of Fox Lake, Ill., has been a throw-in, you see.

Making the story all the more extraordinary, Mike Higgins was considered plumb nuts when he arrived at the Sarasota training base with a couple of American Association infielders, who "had been tried in the majors and found well on the short side." They were Owen Friend, who batted all of 251 for Indianapolis, and the 26-year-old Klaus, who drove in 66 runs manufacturing 21 home runs and batting .280 for Minneapolis.

Pinky Higgins might have been slightly off base on Friend, but the new manager certainly hit the jackpot with Klaus, although he made this yarn all the more unusual by turning to this gas-house gang type of ballplayer as a last and desperate resort.

Klaus would not be the Boston Americans might not be where they are now had not Milt Bollinger suffered a broken elbow in training. Then the veteran Ed Die Joost, obtained as a replacement, had his hand broken the first week of the season. Next Friend got the call until Klaus took over regularly June 5, which is when the Back Bay Millionaires got hot before the weather.

Klaus, repeatedly a minor league All-Star, had been over-looked by major league clubs largely because of his size, or lack of it. This left-hand hitter appears smaller than his five feet nine and 160 pounds.

Anyway, Tommy Holmes, then managing the Boston Braves, passed up Klaus and Johnny Logan for one Jack Cusick in the spring of 1952.

"If I'm not a better shortstop than Cusick," said the cocky Klaus at the time, "I'll walk on my hands from Braves Field to downtown Boston."

Klaus was tossed in for good measure when the Milwaukee Braves gave the Giants Johnny Antonelli, Don Liddle and Ebba St. Claire for Bobby Thomson and Sam Calderone, Feb. 1, 1954.

When the Giants wanted Del Wilber for Minneapolis during last winter's meetings, Klaus' contract was transferred to the Red Sox the same day, so it was an even exchange. The Polo Grounders more recently brought up Wayne Terwilliger from the Millers to spell Dave Williams at second base. Don't try to tell the Red Sox that Terwilliger is Klaus' match at doing anything.

Teamates tell you that while Klaus may not be a Phil Rizzuto, when Little Scooter was in full bloom, he isn't far behind.

Klaus gives the Red Sox a corking 300 second-slot hitter, batting behind Billy Goodman to right field, or to left field, as the occasion calls for.

'Habakkuk's Faith Tested'

(Habakkuk 1:1-6; 12:13; 2:1-4)
GOLDEN TEXT: "The just shall live by faith." (Habakkuk 2:4)

INTRODUCTION: Very little is known of the Prophet, Habakkuk. We know that by nature he was a sensitive soul. We know that he was contemporary with Jeremiah and that his ministry came just before the final destruction of Jerusalem.

God uses different types of prophets and ministers for different situations. He always has a man ready to meet the need of the hour at hand. Habakkuk was the sensitive soul. He knew that he was being punished just because of their sins against God. He never hesitated to tell them so. The only question which he did ask was concerning why it was that the ungodly, heathen nations were permitted to administer the punishment. Do we not ask the same question today? We may be asking it even more in the future. Let us always remember God is just and right. Like a parent administering punishment to a child because of love, so God "chastises them that He loveth."

I HABAKKUK'S BURDEN
(V. 1-6)

This sensitive man of God had a burdened heart because of the sin of his people. He knew that he would never let their sin go unpunished. (He never does even today.) The Chaldean nation was bringing cruelties upon God's people. This Habakkuk could hardly understand. He could not refrain from asking, "why?" There is nothing wrong with asking honest questions for the purpose of gaining understanding. On the other hand, asking questions for the sake of argument is sinful.

Additional Church Notes On Page Three

II HABAKKUK ASKED GOD
(V. 1:12; 2:1)

Like the rich young ruler who came to Jesus asking, "What good thing can I do that I may inherit eternal life?" Habakkuk came to God with his question. He came to the right place.

Friend, if you have questions of a spiritual nature, bring those questions to God. You will not find the answer to your problem in magazines, in books, on radio or T. V. programs. Neither will you find your answer in psychology nor philosophy. Christ is the answer! Take your burdens, problems and questions to Him.

III GOD ANSWERED HABAKKUK
(2:24; 1:6)

God knows best. His plans are to us like a mighty river. If we could rise high enough to see the river from its small source to its great emptying into the mighty ocean, we could understand better than by standing at any point on its banks. God is weaving a mighty pattern in world history which will lead ultimately to great and glorious victory for His people. Today, we are a part of that pattern. Many things we do not understand now, but in eternity, when we see the completed work of God, we will understand.

Habakkuk had his answer from God. Although he did not fully understand it, he accepted it as God's will. Can you do this today?

CONCLUSION — ("THE JUST SHALL LIVE BY FAITH")

How else? God's people love Him and know that His will is best. Romans 8:28 is still true: "We know that ALL THINGS work together for good to them that love the Lord and are called according to His purpose." Not "some things," but "all things." Although we do not understand all things that come into our lives, we do know that if we are children of God, that, "all things work together for good." "The just shall live by faith."
